ABOUT ME

Having left university with 5 years of photography education, I soon found myself working as a cruise ship photographer. Not only did I take photos of passengers, but I worked heavily behind the scenes, with TSP offering a professional environment where I would edit, retouch and print images.

Moving from there, while I originally taught English as a way to stay in Spain, I stumbled upon Ticketbis where I could use a lot of the talents that I learned on the ship and in University. As Content Editor, alongside writing content, I frequently created small images and logos for the site, and handled short HTML snippets to be used on the frontend.

Once Ticketbis was bought by StubHub, I was promoted to UK and Intl. Partnership CCL Coordinator. This, in part, was due to my knowledge regarding imagery, HTML and CSS knowledge and ability to pickup new platforms.

My role has since diverged into dealing with imagery requests, liaising with individual content editors, and working with the various product teams in sorting out landing pages and site issues, and finally helping to define HTML asks in greater detail.
